Baubles, Bangles & Beads

2001

Cheryl,

This year for New Year's I wanted to avoid any embarrassment by letting you know ahead of time what I will be wearing. I will be arriving in a peacock blue taffeta by Faviana. I will be decorated in glittering crystals that will make the milky way look drab. If you show up in anything even remotely resembling this description, I will make last year's incident look like a tea party.

Your Loving (and Stronger) Sister,

Baubles for the Bride

Casey,

Please remember to get the bridesmaid jewelry from Baubles in a Bag no later than Friday. We've got the rehearsal dinner that night and I want to make sure all the girls get their matching necklaces and earrings.

*Love,
Mom*

p.s. Thanks again for mentioning Baubles in a Bag, it was the perfect solution to our problem!

Gift from the Heart*

Dear Diary,

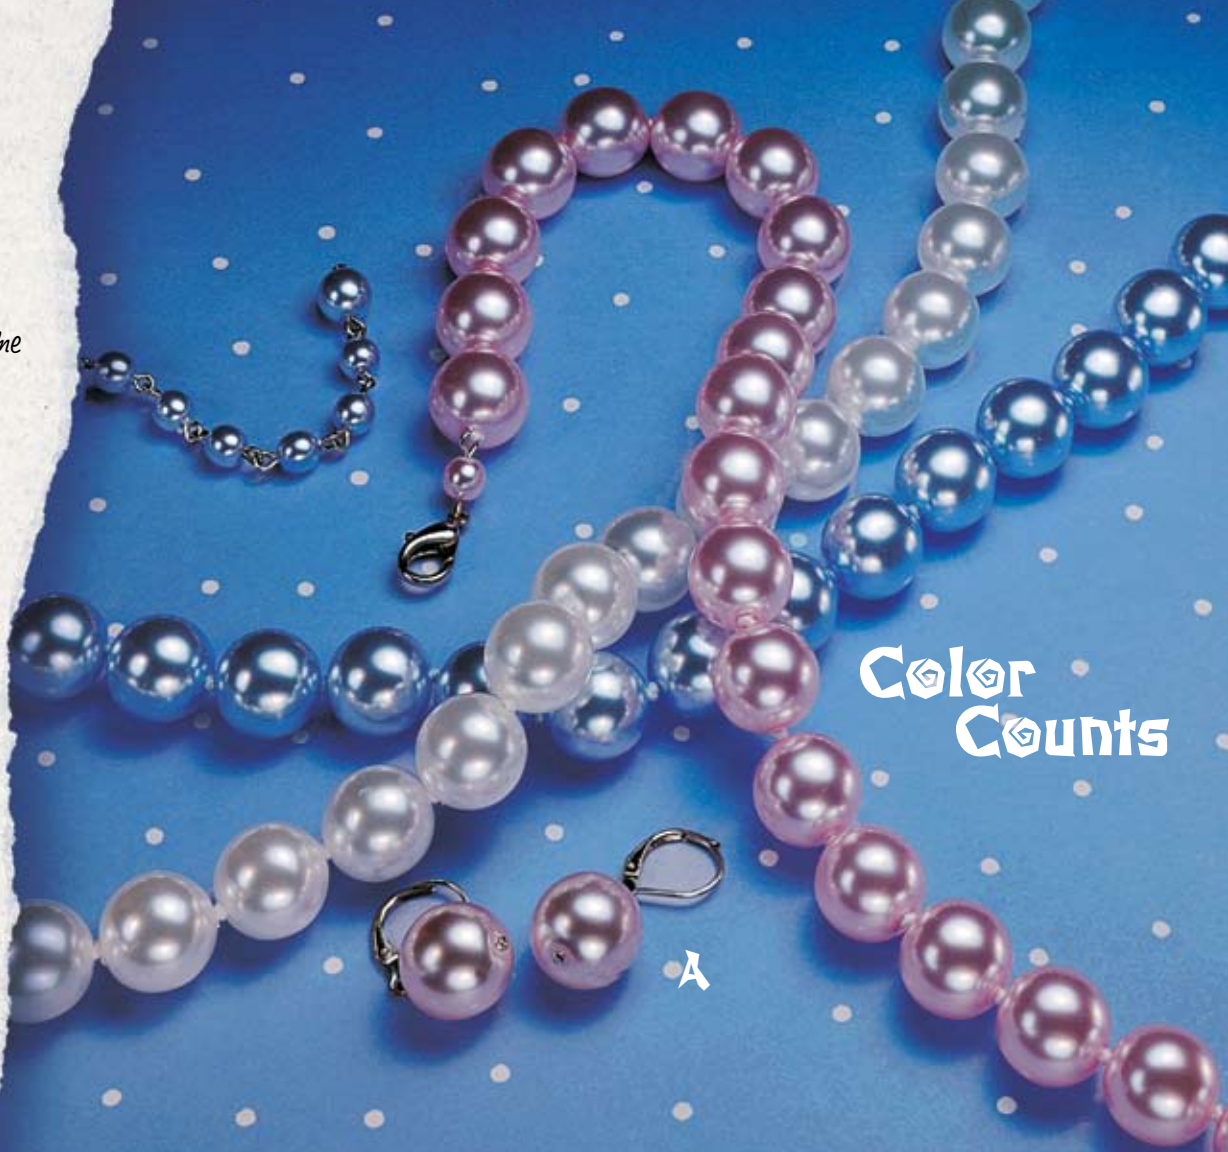

I was so anxious to try my new faux pearls. They totally rocked against the satin blouse Derek got me (p.s. HE RULES!!!)

Anyway, Britney thought they were real! I'm thinking, yeah right, I wish. But I told her they were real.

Why not?

Lane was checking me out, I just know it. But who cares? He's a dork anyway.

Can't wait for prom!

Sela,

Don't forget the jewelry I got for you from Baubles in a Bag for your Senior pictures today. I left the bag on the table by the front door. You are a beautiful young woman and no jewelry can do you justice. I am so proud of you.
You're as good as gold!

Love,
Mom

p.s. Take the money and buy yourself
something nice.

The Midas Touch

Dear Diary,

Mom wasn't too hip on the seventh earring idea. Not to mention my tattoo proposal.

I was just thinking something tasteful and somewhat hidden, like on my shoulder or waist or something. Oh well.

What's left that is cool and diferent and stylish, but not permanent?

Oh wait,
what have we here...

These Little Piggies Went to Prom

Dear Diary,

These new toe rings I got are so cool! They're like some sort of Eastern Indian sort of style. I feel like I should be a belly dancer or something!

KEWL!

I've got this new slammin' pair of open-toe shoes with crazy big platforms I'm thinking of wearing to Dina's party. Derek is totally digging my new look!

Prom is only three weeks away and Derek hasn't even asked me to go with him yet. Does he just think we're automatically going together?

He'd better.
